GLOVER CHURCH 100 YEARS OLD

near where Greensboro village now stands, passing over "South Hill" in Glover, thence between Stone and Daniels ponds, thence to a point a few rods east of Parker pond, thence to Barton river at a point where the upper stone railroad bridge now stands. In 1796, Gen. Barton, for whom the town of Barton was named, built a sawmill near this point, which was swept away in 1810, by the waters of "Runaway Pond." The settlement of Glover was commenced in 1797 by James Vance on the Hinman road, who made the first clearing in town, on lot No. 140, and erected the first frame house, which is still standing on the road from West Glover to Glover village.

The next clearing was made by Ralph Parker, on the Hinman road on lot No. 116 near the southerly end of Parker pond (named after Mr. Parker) and he there opened the first tavern in Glover, and it was near his house where the present Congregational church was first erected, and the first burial ground established. The first town meeting was held in 1799, at the Parker tavern, and Ralph Parker, James Vance, Andrew Moore, John Conant, Asa Brown and Levi Partridge were all who were present. Ralph Parker was town clerk in 1814, when John Boardman was elected Boardman. The first town meeting was held in 1799, at the Parker tavern, and Ralph Parker, James Vance, Andrew Moore, John Conant, Asa Brown and Levi Partridge were all who were present. Ralph Parker was town clerk in 1814, when John Boardman was elected Boardman.

Also in 1797, Samuel Cook, commenced a clearing and built a house on lot No. 82, now owned by N. H. Wilson. At about this time a road was opened south of the Parker tavern, over "Hardy Hill," to Samuel Cook's, crossing the river, on a log bridge, near the Aaron Wilson saw mill, which was swept away in 1810 by the waters of Runaway pond.

Later a road was built on the road set off from the Parker pond, a little west of the "Hardy Hill" road left the Hinman road, thence to Boardman Hollow and on to Irasburg.

During these first years a road was built starting a little east of the Wilson mill, to "Keene's Corner," a little west of the meetings, visited the few families in Glover and conversed with them on the subject of religion.

On the third day of June, 1817, Mr. Bliss went to Peacham and engaged Rev. Samuel Goddard to come and preach a sermon or service of some service on the tenth day of July, and so much harmony was found, it was voted to organize a church, and on the twelfth day of July 1817, at a schoolhouse in the western part of the town, Rev. Goddard, assisted by Rev. Luther Leland of Leland, organized this church with sixteen members as follows:

Stephen Bliss, Loring Frost, Ellsworth Phelps, Samuel Cook, Sarah Bliss, Elizabeth Beech, Alice Bingham, Sarah Adams, Susanna Noyes, Hannah Barton, Eunice Kimball, Abigail Boardman, Silence Woods, Irena Wright, Ruby Lyman and Sarah Bliss 2d.

Of these persons, three were from Barton. Eunice Kimball was the wife of John Kimball, who became one of the leading men of Barton and the county; Susanna Noyes, the wife of Enoch Noyes of Barton and Sarah Adams, there being no church in Barton, to encourage this pioneer church, they joined it. The Congregational church at Barton was organized in September of the same year. They each took a letter and in same charter members of the Barton church.

Stephen Bliss was elected deacon, and Loring Frost, clerk. From 1817 until 1826, the church had no settled minister, but occasionally engaged a pastor from neighboring towns, to read and hold services in the schoolhouse, but religious services were principally sustained by Deacon Stephen Bliss.

During these nine years twenty-eight persons were received into this church. In 1826, Rev. Reuben Mason was installed pastor of this church and his ministry continued ten years.

Rev. S. K. B. Perkins, in his sermon preached at the semi-centennial celebration, July 12, 1867, said of his work, "His labors were blessed in the outpouring of the Holy Spirit and in consequence with a powerful revival, forty-two persons were received into the church during his pastorate."

Much of the early prosperity of this church was due to his earnest, faithful labors. Since that time pastors have been as follows:

Noah Cressney	1828 to 1840
Orin Pearson	1840 to 1845
Levi H. Stone	1845 to 1854
Lot N. Woodruff	1857 to 1858
Sidney K. B. Perkins	1858 to 1861
Chauncey B. Thomas	1861 to 1864
Benjamin S. Adams	1864 to 1868
George Sterling	1868 to 1872
Benjamin S. Adams	1872 to 1882
Azro A. Smith	1882 to 1893
Frank J. Grimes	1893 to 1896
Oliver Brown	1896 to 1904
Samuel L. Vincent	1904 to 1906
George P. Rowell	1906 to 1911
Arthur B. Ross	1911 to 1917
Milo S. Eddy	1917 to 1917
Granville W. Nims	1917 to 1917

Deacons have served as follows: Stephen Bliss, elected in 1817, served 14 years. Stephen Woods, elected in 1828, served 15 years. Ziba Bliss, elected in 1832, served 29 years. Alonzo Dutton, elected in 1842, served 24 years.

Stephen G. Bliss, elected in 1861, deceased in 1863. Lewis Barber, elected in 1866, resigned Sept. 3, 1877. Charles Marston, elected in 1866, dismissed by letter in 1894. Enoch Simonds, elected Oct. 30, 1877, died July 17, 1895. John Borland, elected Oct. 30, 1877, died June 16, 1902. James Cameron, date of election not on church records, died Feb. 11, 1910. Charles C. King, elected Jan. 5, 1897. Samuel T. Vance, elected June 28, 1907. Reuben C. Stevens, elected Jan. 7, 1913.

CHURCH STRUCTURES.

Rev. Perkins, in his semi-centennial sermon says, "The church and congregation were without any suitable place of worship until the South Meeting House in this village was built in the year 1830." This church was later controlled by the Universalists and was burned some years since. It was constructed with the agreement that the Methodists, Baptists, Universalists and Congregationalists should each have the right to occupy it one-fourth of the time.

This evidently did not prove satisfactory, as in 1832 a society was formed by the name of "The Congregational Society in Glover, for the purpose of building a meeting house, in which to worship Almighty God." This society voted to build a house 44 by 38 feet, posts 15 1/2 feet, with 40 pews, plan same as the church in the east part of the town. As I am informed, there was a vestibule in the front end and choir gallery over it, the put was the end next the gallery, and a little lower, in the center of the house, and reached by a flight of steep stairs, there were 20 body pews and 20 side pews, with two aisles. The house was heated by two stoves, one at the right and one at the left of the pulpit.

Voted to let the building of same to John Boardman and Charles Cutler for $1050. One-tenth part in money and the remainder in neat cattle, the first of October next, or in grain in January next after.

Those who contributed toward the building of the church were John Boardman, Charles Cutler, E. C. Dutton, Timothy Lyman, John Hurlbut, Harry Baxter, Stephen Woods, Thomas Baker, Jefferson Ufford, Benjamin Bean, Gridley Joy, Ziba Bliss, Alonzo Dutton, Timothy Lyman, Jr., John Clark, Henry Cutler, Samuel Vase, Elisha Wright, Ira Colburn, Ira Colburn, Jr., John Cooper and Reuben Mason.

This church was built near the first cemetery and near where the first tavern was built on lot No. 116 and in 1850 was moved to its present location.

At the time this church was first erected, it well accommodated those who contributed to build it. Probably none lived more than two miles from Parker pond, some south, some east, some north and some west of it. In 1869 this church was thoroughly repaired as you now see it. It was made larger toward the street, new finish to the interior, pulpit changed to the north end, pews changed to the other way. E. O. Randall presented the church with a bell. The pews were sold to pay the expense.

In 1852 there seemed to be great need of a church building in Glover village. This village had a fair water power, and had grown to be a thriving village.

November 5 of that year Orleans Liberal Institute was incorporated. In 1853 Isaac A. Parker became its principal. History tells us that the aggregate attendance of this school for 1857-1858 was 193, hence in 1852, a society was formed with the following preamble: "It having become necessary to build a house for the public worship of God, for the benefit of the First Congregational Church and Society in Glover, Orleans County, Vt., We the subscribers do hereby voluntarily form ourselves into an Association or Corporation, agreeably to Chapter 81, Revised Statutes of Vermont, by taking stock to build said house. Which Association shall be known by the name of the 'Glover Village Congregational Meeting House Society,'" signed by F. S. French and twenty-two others. I have been unable to obtain the names of these persons. The Community church at Glover now occupies this church and are doing good work in this part of the town.

Rev. Levi H. Stone was pastor of the Glover church from 1845 to 1854, and it was largely due to his persistent labors that this house was constructed. I have not time to speak of the faithful work of many of the deacons and the pastors of this church. I must not close this address without referring to the faithful services of Rev. Sidney K. B. Perkins, pastor of this church from 1858 to 1876, eighteen years. Mr. Perkins was always active for the standing and welfare of this church, and of the town of Glover. By many he was considered the peer of his colleagues in the denomination in the county, like Rev. E. P. Wild of Craftsbury, Rev. Pliny H. White of Coventry and Rev. William A. Robinson of Barton, who were leaders among the clergy of the state. It was he who wrote the history of Glover in Miss Hemmenway's Gazetteer of Vermont.

It was he who delivered the historical sermon at the semi-centennial celebration of this church held at Glover village, July 12, 1867. He then says: "From the origin of the church to the present time, there have been 177 members. Of these 50 have been removed by death, 50 have taken letters, 14 were excommunicated, 63 were expelled, 10 males and 44 females. Since that date, the church records now show 247 have joined, 59 have died, 73 have been granted letters, seven have been dismissed, six dropped from the roll, leaving now on the roll 102, which agrees with the Congregational year book.

I wish to say here that I have been greatly aided in the preparation of this address by Rev. Perkins's sermon above referred to, from the appropriate text, "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations, ask the Father and he will show thee," Deut. 32:7.

I know of no better text to recommend to you for your guidance for the coming one hundred years.

CALEDONIA COUNTY.

The marl ponds in Sutton have been sold by M. M. Taplin, Harry Dickens and H. R. Cutler to Hannibal Hamlin of Brookline, Mass.

Charles Butler of St. Johnsbury is authority for the statement that we have had 39 thunder storms so far this season, the greatest number in any one season since he began to keep a record.

St. Johnsbury has a "community kitchen," where any may go for assistance with their canning or can have it done for them by experts for ten cents a can, when materials are furnished.

Members of the Caledonia County Bar association had a banquet at St. Johnsbury Friday night in honor of two of their number who were recently commissioned, Capt. Leigh I. Harvey and Lieut. Joseph Fairbanks. Members of Chamberlin post, G. A. R., were the guests of the bar association.

The Congregational church in Lyndon will be 100 years old Nov. 30, but the observance of the anniversary was held Aug. 15, bringing it at a time when the summer people, many of them especially interested in the church, might participate. There were many historical sketches and a centennial fund was started, over $100 being pledged at one meeting.

In another destructive electric storm Aug. 20, property was damaged in Danville. The Congregational church was struck and the steeple ripped off. The door plowed down the side of the building, scattering shingles and clapboards in all directions. The chimney on the Masonic hall and the town hall were torn off, trees struck and electric lights and telephones burned out.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wright of Hardwick wandered into the woods Monday, August 20, and was out over night, being found the next day by the Boy Scouts of Hardwick. Mrs. Wright is 72 years old and deaf. She was dependent over domestic affairs and apparently desired to end her life. She lay under a log all night in the rain and was badly chilled from exposure, but is recovering.

St. Johnsbury is to have another educational institution. The Green Mountain School for Girls, is to be opened in the fall by Miss Caroline Wood Woodruff, a teacher in the public schools for the last 13 years. She is associated with her cousin, Mrs. Roger Williams, of Cuba. The school will receive both boarders and day pupils and is designed as a finishing school and a preparatory school.

Joseph H. Warren, a respected citizen of the town of Wolcott, died in past 50 years, committed suicide by hanging himself Aug. 17. The body was discovered by his daughter, who resided with him, early in the afternoon, and she hurriedly notified neighbors. No cause for the rash act is apparent as the deceased, although alone in years, had been in his usual health and there was no intimation of his intentions.

Judge George C. Frye, acting as a court of inquiry at St. Johnsbury, announced Friday at the conclusion of a three days' hearing that the state had shown sufficient evidence to hold Mrs. Sarah not an insane woman. His was without bail for the special session of the grand jury. The respondents charged with the murder of Alice Bradshaw, were in court, but were not put on the witness stand. John Kerwin, also held in connection with the crime, was not in court. The case was submitted to the court of evidence and without argument. It is evident from the battle between the lawyers for the defense, Potter, Witters and Alexander Dunnnett, and attorneys for the state, Attorney General H. G. Barber, and State's Attorney Campbell that the case will be bitterly contested.

The family had a pleasant auto ride to Willoughby lake and the aged traveler upon the road of life enjoyed the day very much indeed.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

Although Friday, the day appointed for the Sunday school picnic, was stormy so the gathering could not go to the grove, a good time was enjoyed with lunch and games at the church.

HAS RECOVERED HER HEALTH

So many women are suffering from similar afflictions that this testimonial letter from Mrs. Laura Beall, Plattburg, Miss., will be read with interest: "I got in bad health. My left side hurt all the time. I took doctor's medicine but it did me no good. I took two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and I feel all right now." Backache, rheumatic twinges, pains in side, swollen and sore muscles, stiff joints, puffiness under eyes, bladder troubles and kindred symptoms are quickly relieved by Foley Kidney Pills. Fred D. Pierce, Barton; G. H. Hunt, Evansville.

PAYING THE DOCTOR.

Should It Be For Curing You or For Keeping You Well?

We haven't yet learned to take advantage of the resources of civilization to anything like the extent we might. For instance, we wait until we get sick, and then we pay the doctor to help us get well. It would be much more sensible to pay him to help us keep from getting sick.

Fantastic idea, you say. Not at all. It already is working in a large number of college communities, right here in the state universities of Missouri and Kansas, for instance. In both institutions the pupil is charged a fee which is applied to safeguarding his health. In the University of Missouri the plan is still further developed so that the fee covers medical and surgical attendance. The health work in both schools is so interesting, not only for what it is doing for the pupils, but for the example it is setting other communities, that it is only right and proper to call attention to it.

The important point is that these universities and other schools are proving that health can be made much more of a community matter than had been supposed and that the wise thing to do is for groups to pay medical men to keep them well.—Kansas City Star.

A WATER SOAKED TOWN.

Where Nearly a Foot of Rain Falls Every Week in the Year.

"It is a remarkable fact that in India, one of the most arid countries in the world, there is one spot that has the record rainfall of the whole earth," said Dr. William Roberts, British agricultural expert in India, to a correspondent of the Washington Post. "This place is Cherapunji, in Assam. It is in the path of the monsoon and in a valley, and there is almost constant rainfall.

"The average rainfall is 600 inches a year, or fifty feet, which is nearly a foot a week. This seems almost beyond comprehension when it is considered that the rainfall of the United States, for instance, ranges from sixteen to thirty-five inches. In some places there have been as high as sixty-five inches of water in a year, but this is the exception.

"During the rainy season in Cherapunji the waterfall is heaviest, but there is rain throughout the year. Notwithstanding this terrific moisture, the inhabitants of the district raise vegetables and grain. They do this by building terraces which carry the water off."

Uncalled for Action.

Mary was visiting in the country and had been stung by a bee. She didn't seem to mind the pain so much, but she had a sensitive disposition. She ran sobbing to her mother and said, "I don't see what he did it for, 'cause I hadn't done a thing to him."
